The Truth About Change

In 1964, Bob Dylan composed and sang a folk song that resonates with each of us living today – 60 years later – in 2024.

It went like this:

*Come gather 'round,
people, wherever you roam.*

And admit that the waters around you have grown.

And accept it that soon you'll be drenched to the bone.

If your time to you is worth saving

And you better start swimmin' or you'll sink like a stone

For the times, they are a-changing.'

This has never been more true. I can't believe the changes that have taken place since the year I came to America as a young boy. A desktop or laptop computer was not even an imagination; an iPhone or any mobile phone was the stuff of science fiction; the only thing close to social media was a transistor radio! Even cassette tapes and CDs were in the future; we were still listening to vinyl LP records. VHS or DVD movies were non-existent, much less digital streaming services. Yes, the times, they've certainly been "a-changing!"

And not just technology has changed, but also the way we think, work and act in society. Common ideas and thoughts have shifted dramatically, even in the past few years. But friends, we can be so grateful that there are some things that have never changed.

I'd like to share with you four fundamental precepts from the Word of God — four truths that you can count on to never change.

1. God hasn't changed. In Malachi 3:6, the Bible records

God's voice for us to read: "I am the Lord, and I do not change. Whatever is good and perfect comes to us from God above, who created all heaven's lights. Unlike them, he never changes or casts shifting shadows." James 1:17

David who proclaimed about the Lord when he said: "Your faithfulness endures to all generations (Psalm 119:90). Even during the saddest and worst of times, the prophet Jeremiah could look up — filled with hope and full assurance —

2. The Word of God hasn't changed. Isaiah 40:8 tells us that "The grass withers and the flowers fade, but the word of our God stands forever."

3. The Law of God has not changed. Take a look at the words of David in Psalm 19:7-8. David emphasized that point over and over. The law of the Lord is perfect, converting the soul.. and in verse 8, he states that the commandment of the Lord is pure. Something that's pure doesn't need refining. Again, in Psalm 111:7-8 David states that all his commandments (sometimes translated as precepts) are sure. They stand fast forever and ever. My favorite version of the Bible is the New Living Translation: Here it states: "All he does is just and good, and all his commandments are trustworthy. They are forever true to be obeyed faithfully and with integrity."

4. God's faithfulness has never changed. Again it was and say those words recorded in the book of Lamentations, "His compassions fail not. They are new every morning; So Great is Your faithfulness." (Lamentations 3: 22-23)

The greatest need of each of us during this New Year of 2024 is to let Jesus change our hearts. Then — no matter what changes may occur in this world during this year, no matter what tragedies tear us apart with sadness, or no matter what triumphs we may celebrate with joyful delight — our lives can be built on the unchanging eternal God.

ENDING ON A HIGH NOTE Celebrating 16 Years of Faith and Fellowship

After 16 years, the Alive Youth Rally held its last gathering on Friday and Saturday, March 1-2, 2024.

Alive, hosted and conducted by the Spartanburg church since 2009, was the brainchild of Kevin Watson, Pastor Ryan Hodgins, and a team of dedicated church members. Its sole purpose was to help connect youth with Jesus. Although the role of youth pastor has changed hands several times since Hodgins moved on to pastor other churches, Pastor Benjamin Lawson stepped in for the last few years, helping to conclude this 16-year journey.

This year, despite lower attendance due to multiple events across the Carolina Conference, the teenagers connected with guest speaker Dwain Esmond. Esmond, now the associate director and editor for the White Estate at the General Conference, was also the inaugural speaker in 2009, providing a fitting conclusion to the event.

In the afternoon, between lunch and the following session, Watson's and Lawson's team prepared a comprehensive team activity competition for the attendees. The much-loved and anticipated T-shirt cannon followed the afternoon session. Different age groups were invited onto the baseball field to try to catch one of the many shirts shot over their heads. This year, the Spartanburg team went all out, dropping T-shirts from an airplane in addition to firing them from air-compressed cannons, as attendees scrambled to catch the rolled-up T-shirts.

Now that Alive has concluded its final year, perhaps God is calling your church to develop the next youth rally. While we often talk about the youth as the future of the church, they are, in fact, its present. One of the pillars the Conference Administration is focusing on during this quinquennial session is youth. Let's prioritize them in each church as Spartanburg has, continuing this important work.

AWAKEN YOUNG ADULT CONFERENCE “The Power of Your Love”

The 5th annual Awaken Conference, themed “The Power of Your Love,” emerged as the most impactful gathering yet, drawing in 120 attendees to the Nosoca Pines Ranch from March 1-3. Despite encountering challenges during the planning phase, the event, organized by Ryan Hodgins, pastor of the Pursuit Worship congregation, and his team of volunteers, was an undeniable success, witnessing a notable increase in participants, including a significant representation of second-generation Hispanics. Hodgins expressed, “During the planning, there were several times when wrinkles almost seemed like they would keep the event from happening. It always takes so much effort to put on anything of impact. But with much love comes great success.”

The 90’s theme added a nostalgic flair to the conference, culminating in a vibrant 90’s glow party on Saturday evening. Volunteers played a crucial role in the planning and setup, with the dedicated team starting their preparations almost a year ahead, ensuring a seamless execution. Hodgins shared, “The volunteer setup team starts by taking down Pursuit Worship’s equipment the Sunday before and loading it all onto a 26 ft. Rental truck. Then Thursday morning we drive down and start setting up at Nosoca at 10:00 am. We work through the day and late in the night.”

The main speaker for the weekend, Sam Leonor, a former Carolinian and Adventist Health Mission Identity and Spiritual Care executive, delivered impactful messages throughout the event. Leonor encouraged attendees to “Work as if success depends on our efforts, but trust as if all depended on God.” Hodgins emphasized the importance of active involvement as well, stating, “God wants us active and working hard.”

Hodgins, reflecting on the weekend experience, shared, “As the band played and music filled the space, something special happened. My heart was softened, and I was brought to tears by the overwhelming thought of how wonderful it is that God would be willing to use someone like me to influence so many young adults.”

Cris Dutra, the Carolina Conference Young Adult/Campus Ministries Director, offered her insights on the event, stating, “At the Young Adult conference, I witnessed hearts awakening as they worshiped God together and listened to Pastor Sam share messages that deepened their understanding of God’s love and how to align their hearts with His.” Dutra underscored the transformative nature of the experience, highlighting the connections forged and friendships formed among the young participants. “I hope that the ignited passion for sharing God’s love will continue to burn brightly, impacting lives throughout the year until the next Awaken.”

COMMITTED TO SERVE: The Ordination of Marcos Bernal

Church members and conference leaders gathered with friends, family, and fellow church members of Marcos Bernal on November 18, 2023, at the Mount Pisgah Seventh-day Adventist Church for his ordination service.

Elder Samuel Romero, retired director of Hispanic Ministries in the Carolina Conference, returned from Collegedale, Tennessee, to share the ordination sermon for Pastor Bernal. Following a hearty recommendation by elders from his present and previous district, Elder Bernal confirmed his commitment to follow God and faithfully serve his churches. Elder Leslie Louis, Carolina Conference President, and Haskell Williams, Ministerial Director, welcomed Pastor Marcos and his wife, Edlin, to the ranks of ordained pastors and placed on him the mantle of service and responsibility with the assurance that He who called him would strengthen him to fulfill his assignment to share the Gospel Commission.

Pastor Bernal was first spotted while a student at Southern Adventist University by Elders Romero and Haskell Williams. After working in auto manufacturing and starting a family, he felt the hand of God on his shoulder and entered the Theology Department for training.

Upon completing the program, he was called to serve as Pastor of the Wilmington, New Bern, and Myrtle Beach district on the east coast of N.C. He led and grew the congregations through recovery from a devastating flood due to Hurricane Matthew in 2016. He also played a key role in planting congregations in Morehead City and Jacksonville, N.C.

In January 2023, Pastor Bernal began serving in his current district of congregations in Asheville, Arden, Hendersonville, and Swannanoa, N.C. He is also fulfilling a commitment to his country by serving in the N.C. National Guard Reserves as a Sergeant / E-5.

REJOICING IN THE HARVEST

A Recap of Eastern and Palmetto Harvest Impact Events

With a spirit of unity and celebration, members and pastors from across the Eastern Carolina Adventist Ministerial Association (AMA) recently gathered to rejoice in the Lord's works during the Palmetto Harvest Impact in Summerville, S.C., and the Eastern Carolina Harvest Impact in Raleigh, N.C.

The Palmetto Harvest Impact event took place on October 7 in Summerville, S.C., featuring guest speaker

Richard Halversen, Sr. A week later, on October 14, the Eastern Carolina Harvest Impact unfolded in Raleigh, N.C., with guest speaker Denver Cavins. The primary purpose of these gatherings was to celebrate the success pastors came together to share stories of conversions and baptisms, welcoming new members into their congregations. The events provided a platform to exchange insights on Best Practices unfolding in each church. It was a time of communal joy, reflection, and inspiration, reinforcing the sense of unity among Carolina churches.

Friday night and all day Sabbath were dedicated to the sharing of these uplifting stories. Attendees found encouragement in the tangible evidence of God's transformative work in the lives of individuals within their communities.

The gatherings were not merely opportunities to pat each other on the back but rather a collective commissioning to move forward as Christ's troops into the harvest fields.

The Bonds of Sisterhood: Hispanic and English Women's Retreats at Nosoca Pines Ranch

In October 2023, women from the Carolina Conference gathered at Nosoca Pines Ranch for two impactful weekends. The first weekend was overflowing with participants, as the Hispanic women in Carolina not only attended the camp for a weekend of inspiration but also brought along their friends.

Janet Paulino played a crucial role in organizing the weekend. She invited all non-Adventist attendees to join her on stage (pictured below).

Though it took some time and encouragement, eventually the stage was filled from one end to the other with women. The event was a truly evangelistic experience. On Sabbath afternoon, the women congregated at the pool, engaging in song, prayer, and rejoicing as two women were baptized by Gary Moyer, Conference VP of Administration.

The subsequent weekend featured the English Fullness of Joy retreat, marked by intergenerational worship. Women of diverse ages, ranging from 10 to 70-plus, came together. June Price (pictured left) delivered impactful biblical preaching, and Natalie Boonstra Lily shared insights with the teenage girls. Witnessing mothers and daughters delving into the Word together was a beautiful experience. Equally moving was the sight of teens connecting and worshipping alongside those who are retired. Representatives from Impact Hope (pictured above, right, with Beth Grissom, Conference Women's Ministries director) contributed by sharing the inspiring work they are doing, providing an opportunity for women to extend their blessings to children in need of HOPE.

Women's Ministry in the Carolina Conference remains committed to spreading the saving grace of Christ, impacting lives both within the Conference and around the world.

A SEED IN FERTILE SOIL: The Spiritual Journey of a Nosoca Pines Ranch Camper

Felicia Sanders' week at Nosoca Pines Ranch Summer Camp was pivotal, her first memory of being in a church environment. She had begun praying and studying her Bible at age 13, but while she was at camp, God spoke to her very clearly. The week culminated in a performance set to the song "Without Jesus," where 16-year-old Felicia played the main character who was running to the foot of the cross.

That skit reflected her real-life journey. Back home, answering God's call to her heart, she began to regularly attend Lincolnton Seventh-Day Adventist Church in N.C. In 2020, she was baptized. She also put her faith first when it came to choosing a college, enrolling in Southern Adventist University. Initially she was nervous about her new adventure, but she stepped out in faith.

"The more you say yes to God, the greater the heights He brings you to," Felicia says. "I was a seed ready to burst, and I am grateful that I was planted in fertile soil at Southern."

Felicia joined SALT (Soul-winning And Leadership Training), an outreach program organized by Southern in partnership with It Is Written. The program is founded on the theory that all of God's followers are called to be the salt of the earth (Matthew 5:14). Felicia enjoyed going two-by-two to knock on doors and share the gospel. Her favorite memory was when a particular man answered the door, and his face lit up.

"He was so excited for his Bible study with us," Felicia remembers.

"He had been recently released from prison, and he had some big challenges and some hard questions."

Felicia has participated in many ministries during her time at Southern. She has spent time canvassing through LEAD (Literature Evangelism and Discipleship), which is an LifeGroups, which are small groups on campus aimed at encouraging spiritual growth, and she currently leads a LifeGroup with the friends she made in SALT. She loves collaborating to find ways to apply God's word to the challenges they encounter in their daily lives.

"Coals stay warm together," she says. "Separate one and it goes dim. I know, for many people, LifeGroups can be their anchor point for the week."

Felicia, currently a junior psychology and religious studies double major, plans to pursue a master's degree in biblical counseling. She hopes to use the skills she is developing through her outreach activities to integrate a biblically-founded mental health message into her counseling and help people battle difficulties such as anxiety, depression, and addiction.

From her time at Nosoca Pines Ranch to now being at Southern, Felicia is following where God leads so she can share Him with others. "Being at Southern opens me up to a world of mission opportunities, and for that I am most grateful," she says. "In addition to academics, I'm being equipped to share Jesus wherever and with whomever the Lord should lead me to!"

opportunity for Southern students through Georgia-Cumberland Conference. She has taken part in three mission trips, and especially enjoyed collaborating with her peers to write and present their own youth evangelistic series in New Zealand. In addition, she has been involved with

FROM DOUBT TO DEVOTION: Mary Ann's Journey with ShareHim Ministries

This story traces its origins back to 2002, a time that predates my involvement with ShareHim by two years. It revolves around Mary Ann Roberts, a former schoolmate of mine at Mount Pisgah Academy. The late Bob Folkenberg, former president of the Carolina Conference, had a dream. He envisioned taking laypeople to developing countries where the work of God appeared to be flourishing. His plan in creating Global Evangelism with the Carolina Conference was to equip people with sermons, guidance, and inspiration, allowing them to preach overseas and witness the joy of people responding to the gospel message. The idea was to ignite their passion for evangelism, enabling them to return to their home churches as enthusiastic “sparkplugs” for the cause.

Mary Ann's first participation in Global Evangelism in 2002 took her to Rongo, Kenya, where God blessed their efforts with 640 baptisms. In my early days with Global Evangelism in 2004, Mary Ann joined us in Moshi, Tanzania, and Bulawayo, Zimbabwe. I distinctly remember God's blessings on her site in Bulawayo, resulting in 433 baptisms. Recently, I had the opportunity to ask her about her extensive journey with Global Evangelism (which later became known as SHAREHIM).

Photo Contributed

She had diligently kept track of baptisms—4,000 in total! Throughout her 16 years of service, she traveled to numerous countries, including places like Central Africa with large, eager crowds, and other regions like Mongolia, Bulgaria, or Cuba, where attendance was smaller.

Mary Ann's journey to Share Jesus wasn't always ablaze with passion. In fact, there was a time when she and her husband David seemed to have lost their way in their walk with God.

My wife and I had the honor of hearing Mary Ann share “the rest of the story” at her husband David's funeral. Mary Ann had signed up to participate in ShareHIM meetings on the island of Cuba and managed to persuade David, a former dentist, to accompany her. He sat through two weeks of meetings, listening as the Spirit of God worked on his heart. On the last Friday night, Mary Ann's sermon delved into the topic of the Unpardonable Sin, and it ended with a call. To everyone's amazement, the first person to respond was David! The following morning, he was also the first to step into the baptistry. Since then, there has been no turning back!

Funerals are typically somber occasions, but David's was also a source of joy and celebration. You see, God not only blessed Mary Ann with 4,000 precious souls through baptism but also granted her an extraordinary bonus—her husband, David, as her partner in the heavenly eternity with Jesus. Thank God for ShareHIM, and for so much more!

—David Dobias, Retired ShareHim Manager

AN ALUMNUS OF THE YEAR

President Leslie Louis Receives Award from SAU

In a heartwarming celebration of service and leadership, the Alumni Association of Southern Adventist University honored Elder Leslie Louis, President of the Carolina Conference, as one of the Alumni of the Year. The prestigious award was presented at the alumni banquet on Thursday, October 26, 2023, recognizing Louis' outstanding contributions to the Seventh-day Adventist Church and the wider community.

Dr. Greg King, Dean of the School of Religion, presented the award to Louis, lauding his decades of dedicated service and his authentic leadership style. "Elder Louis embodies the values we cherish at Southern Adventist University," said King. "His life of service and leadership is an inspiration to us all."

Colleagues and pastors from the Carolina Conference shared their admiration for Louis with Dr. King in the week leading up to the banquet, describing him as a venerable and authentic leader. "What you see is what you get," said one employee. "His door is always open, and he's willing to listen to whatever is on your mind." Another pastor expressed the collective affection of the Conference staff, saying, "I wonder if Elder Louis truly knows how much we love him."

Born to missionary parents in Ceylon (now Sri Lanka), Pastor Leslie D. Louis has spent 50 years serving the Seventh-day Adventist Church in various capacities, including as a teacher, principal, superintendent of

Louis, who also serves on the Board of Trustees for Southern Adventist University, has been a part of the institution's journey not just as an alumnus but also as a guiding force on its Governance and Spiritual Life Committees. His connection to the university is further deepened through his family; both his children are alumni, and he met his wife, Carole, while they were students at Southern Missionary College. The couple celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in December 2023.

An avid traveler, photographer, and outdoorsman, Louis finds joy in exploring the world, having visited countries on six continents. Yet, his greatest passion remains preaching and sharing Christ's teachings through evangelism, prayer, and witnessing.

The Alumni Association's recognition of Elder Leslie Louis as an Alumni of the Year stands as a testament to his impactful leadership and his embodiment of the

Transitions in Trust Services/Planned Giving

Remy Guenin has recently become a valuable addition to the Carolina Conference Planned Giving and Trust Services department, assuming the role of Field Representative. Beginning July 1, 2023, Guenin has effectively fulfilled the NAD certification requirements for this position. In addition to his professional endeavors, Guenin is a devoted family man, married to Stephanie (Zalabak), and proud father to three children: Hannah (21), Lauren (16), and Hudson (13).

The Conference is also delighted to welcome Katelyn Turner as the Secretary for Trust Services & Generous Living. Initially starting in October 2023 in a temporary capacity, Turner has now transitioned into the position full-time. Bringing a wealth of experience in health care administration and leadership, Turner is a valuable addition to the team.

The Trust Services department is dedicated to aiding constituents in achieving stewardship objectives both during and after their lifetimes. Our certified trust officers offer expertise through seminar presentations, wills clinics, and private consultations, aiming to help you balance current financial needs with future considerations. This includes caring for your family and contributing to the gospel's advancement. For those interested in our services or seeking more information, please reach out to us.

ANDERSON, CHARLENE E., 95, born on Sept. 19, 1928, in Melrose, M.A., died on Nov. 27, 2023, in Hendersonville, N.C. She was the daughter of the late William and Ruth Garber Higgins. Anderson's remarkable journey included her childhood on a Seventh-day Adventist mission station in South Africa, her work at the General Conference Headquarters in MD, her role as a secretary at AdventHealth Florida Hospital in Orlando, FL, and her retirement years at Fletcher Park Inn in Hendersonville, N.C. An avid birdwatcher, she appreciated the calm of nature and the beauty of birds. Her passion extended to knitting, where she crafted baby and adult hats for charitable causes, offering warmth and comfort to many. A faithful member of the Fletcher Church, Anderson's strong faith and compassionate nature will be sorely missed by all who had the pleasure of knowing her. She leaves behind her husband, Gordon Anderson; sister, Doreen Furman; niece, Sheri Butler and her husband, Ed; stepson, Lonnie Anderson and his wife, Laura; and stepdaughter, Susan Bohnstedt and her husband, Tim.

BRAUER, CARROLL VERN, 98, born on Oct. 27, 1925, in San Mateo, C.A., died on Dec. 30, 2023, at St.

Elizabeth's Hospice in Hendersonville, N.C. Born to Carroll Vern Brauer Sr. and Gladys Maine (Smith) Brauer, he embarked on a lifelong journey of faith and service. After graduating from Pacific Union College in 1947, Brauer married Alice Bickett. The couple entered pastoral ministry within the Oklahoma Conference, utilizing their musical talents to draw people to Christ. Ordained in 1951, Brauer's dedication to his faith took him and his family to Egypt in 1952, where he served as president of the Upper Egyptian Mission, training young pastors until 1956. His commitment continued as he held positions such as departmental secretary of the Nile Union Mission from 1957 to 1962, and later, roles within the Middle East Division and the Colorado and Potomac Conferences. Brauer's pastoral ministry spanned decades, with notable service in Colorado, the Chapel Haven and Louisville churches, and, after retirement, the Strasburg church in Virginia from 1991 to 2008. He retired with his wife to Fletcher Park Inn in Hendersonville, N.C., where they spent their final years. Brauer's life was a testament to his unwavering faith in Jesus Christ and his belief in eternal life. Predeceased by his parents, wife Alice, sister Barbara, stepfather Samuel Meier, and grandson Joel, he is survived by his sons, Robert, James, Ronald, and Marvin Brauer; eight grandchildren; and seven great-grandchildren.

CLARK, DOUGLAS "GLENN", 79, born in Boone, N.C., died on Oct. 29, 2023, in Hendersonville, N.C. He was the youngest of eight children. Clark earned degrees in Industrial Arts and a Bachelor of Science from Southern Adventist University. Clark spent several years teaching at Lakeview High School in Fort Oglethorpe, GA, before founding Glenn Clark Electric and Plumbing. A longstanding member of the Fletcher Church, he devoted himself to God through service, offering his expertise in electrical, plumbing, and maintenance to those in need. His faith was reflected in his commitment to assisting his church with numerous construction and maintenance projects, which he carried out with expertise and patience. Predeceased by his seven siblings, Clark's legacy is carried on by his wife of 40 years, Karylee Elizabeth Clark; son, Jonathan Douglas Powell (Alison); granddaughter, Elizabeth Brianne (Jeffrey); great-granddaughter, Ella Grace; and numerous nieces and nephews.
